Politics, Groups, and Identities, a peer-reviewed journal of the Western Political Science Association, features the best scholarship on social groups, exploring the politics of gender, race, ethnicity, religion, sexuality, class and other dimensions of identity and structural disadvantage. The journal publishes work across all subfields of political science, as well as the social sciences and humanities more generally. The journal publishes research on any country or region of the world, including work that is global or international in scope as well as work that is national or local, or examines connections between these levels.

Politics, Groups, and Identities is interdisciplinary in focus. The editors are open to a wide range of analytic approaches, including interpretive, ethnographic, historical, quantitative, and multi-method analyses, among others.

In addition to publishing original research articles, the editors invite proposals for integrative review essays or symposia on specific research areas. The editors also seek proposals to promote discussion among scholars on innovative topics or projects. These discussions might take several forms, including but not limited to (1) a set of pieces tackling a common question or debate, (2) a research article with several responses and a rejoinder, (3) "thought" pieces with responses from a variety of perspectives, and (4) research workshops in which novel methodologies or analytical approaches are presented and critiqued.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Politics, Groups, and Identities would like to invite new article submissions. The research should make a theoretical, methodological, or substantive contribution to the study of politics, groups, and identities.

Papers should be submitted to the Editors at:
<https://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/pgi>

- In addition to original research articles, the editors welcome proposals for integrative review essays; symposia on specific research areas; and dialogues among scholars on innovative topics or projects.
- Research articles are a maximum of 8750 words (approximately 25-35 manuscript pages), including references and tables/figures. The length of review essays, symposia, and dialogue pieces are determined in consultation with the editors.
- References, citations, and manuscript format should follow APSA Style.
